

Privacy statement

Protecting your privacy is important to us.

In view of the 2018 GDPR rules and regulations regarding the protection of data and your privacy, we regularly review our privacy policies.

If you send us an e-mail message requesting information about the Global Counterterrorism Forum (GCTF) or one of its activities, we will use your e-mail address and other information you supply solely to respond to your request or to provide assistance as requested.

If you register for a GCTF meeting using one of our online registration forms, we will subsequently process your personal data as either you or a legitimate third party have provided the data to us. We collect these data to be able to perform our services. These services may vary from sending email updates to providing logistical and financial assistance and follow-on reporting associated with the meeting that you wish to attend. Some GCTF meetings are implemented by a third party with which we may need to share some of the collected information if it, for instance, relates to selecting recipients for sponsorship or for reporting purposes. By submitting the online registration form, you agree to the use of these data for the above-stated purposes. In the event that we require to use your personal data in any other way, we will seek your renewed consent.

Your data related to meeting registration will be erased once the event has taken place and its reporting phase has ended, except for contact details that are retained for future GCTF correspondence. Following the completion of a meeting's reporting cycle, you may request not to receive future correspondence from the GCTF.

Data are stored on the T.M.C. Asser Instituut in-house servers located in The Netherlands.

Any personal information you provide to us will be retained only for as long as is necessary to fulfil the purposes for which the information was collected or as required by law. We do not share personal information with third parties except as necessary to perform our tasks or as required by law or other legal processes, and we never sell your personal information.

Accessing our website from outside of the European Union, and by submitting data through the GCTF electronically, you are providing explicit consent to trans-border transmission of data collected via the GCTF website and storage of that data on our servers.

“Cookies” (i.e. small text files placed on your computer when you first visit a website) are used on our website. Most browsers now recognize when a cookie is offered and will permit you to refuse or accept it. If you are not sure whether your browser has this capability, you should check with the software manufacturer, your company's technology help desk or your Internet Service Provider.

Cookies are primarily used to enhance your online experience and are not used to track the navigational habits of identified visitors, unless we obtain your permission to do so. If you visit our site to read or download information, such as news stories or articles, the information we do collect is statistical only (e.g. the domain from which you access the Internet, the date and time you access our site, and the Internet address of the website from which you linked directly to our site) and are not personally identifiable data. We use this information about the number of visitors and their use of the site in aggregate form to make our site more useful and attractive to you.

If you have any further questions or would like to get in touch with our GDPR officer please send an e-mail to gdp-officer@asser.nl. Your e-mail will be treated confidentially and we will get back to you within three working days.

The Hague, January 2020